Oil drilling at Shawnee awaits okay

No drilling leases for land in the Shawnee National Forest will be issued to oil and gas companies until further environmental studies have been completed and the public has been given the opportunity to comment on the project, forest officials announced Friday.

Officials of the Illinois Department of Conservation, the U.S. Department of the Interior and the U.S. Department of Agriculture met in Harrisburg Wednesday to discuss future actions on the lease applications taken out by the companies.

Ron Abraham, information specialist for the National Forest Service, said the officials decided to schedule meetings in the fall to solicit ideas and comments from the public. The meetings will include programs explaining the action taken by the government on the lease applications, Abraham said.

He said the delay in issuing leases also will allow further tests to be taken on the environmental impact on the area that would be caused by drilling.

Seven companies and individuals have taken out 228 applications, Abraham said. The land applied for covers the entire 250,000 acres of the forest.

Applications have been submitted by Amoco for 180,000 acres; the Humble Oil and Refining Co. for 12,600 acres; C.M. Fleetwood, Oklahoma City, Okla., for 90,846 acres; Leon F. Scully Jr., New York, N.Y., for 42,318 acres; Scully and Charles A. Lucido, New York, N.Y., for 29,828 acres; and Arthur E. Minehart, Silver Springs, Md., for 4,680 acres.

Abraham said Merle Kirkpatrick, Anna, recently submitted a lease application, but the amount of land applied for was not available.

Chester prisoners release hostages

By Jeff Jouet
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

CHESTER—Four guards held hostage by about 60 Menard Penitentiary inmates were released unharmed Friday, according to prison officials.

The guards were taken hostage shortly before noon and held in the prison's east cellblock. One of the hostages was released at 4 p.m., the other three at 6 p.m. Authorities said there was no violence.

An Illinois Department of Corrections spokesman said Menard Warden Thomas Israel met with dissident inmates' representatives after the hostages had been released. The inmates presented Israel with five demands, the spokesman said.

Prisoners demanded the right to congregate freely in the prison yard, an end to "cell segregation," and the removal of David Reigal, a prison official, from the chairmanship of the Institution Assignments Committee. The committee determines the degree of security under which a prisoner is confined.

Two other inmate demands were for faster action on inmate complaints and more equitable settlement of grievances.

The first hostage released, Jesse Leonard Canady of Chester, was greeted by his tearful wife. She had waited at the prison for three hours.

Other hostages were Billy Rambeau, Ted Blechle and Homer Essex.

A corrections official said Israel denied the inmate's demand for the right to congregate, agreed to replace Reigal on the Assignments Committee, and agreed to consider the other three demands.

State police were called to the prison and were observed entering east cell block, along with prison guards, about 6 p.m. State police and prison guards had gathered outside the cell block at 4 p.m.

East cell block is a five-story white stone building which normally houses 475 of the prison's 1,400 inmates.

Harvey Grossman, attorney and representative of Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation in Carbondale, was admitted to east cell block at 3:45 p.m. Before entering, Grossman said he was going to advise prisoners of their constitutional rights.

Assistant Warden Paul Simpson also was observed entering east cell block about 4 p.m.

In April 1973, a group of 41 Menard inmates held a guard hostage for several hours to strengthen their demands for better treatment. The guard was released unharmed.

Before Canady was released prison officials had believed that inmates held only three hostages. Canady said the other three remaining hostages were unharmed.

Prison officials would not reveal how the guards were taken hostage.

Warden Israel reportedly ordered the rebelling inmates to release hostages and return to their cells before he would begin negotiating with inmate representatives, according to a Corrections Department official.

Unidentified men emerge from Menard's East cell block about the same time three hostages were released. The photo was taken by Daily Egyptian photographer Steve Sumner, using a 500 mm telephoto lens.

Impeachment panel split on evidence

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first four days of impeachment hearings by the House Judiciary Committee have left members divided as to whether the evidence helps or hurts President Nixon.

Rupublicans generally agree that nothing they have heard points to the President's involvement in the Watergate break-in or cover-up, while some Democrats say a strong case against Nixon is building up.

The detailed, chronological presentation of evidence has not yet reached March 21, 1973, the date of a crucial conversation between Nixon and his former counsel, John Dean, about the payment of hush money to the Watergate defendants.

The committee's attitude also could be affected by Nixon's response to a subpoena ordering him to deliver 11 more Watergate tapes by next Wednesday.

But on the basis of four long cram sessions, during which they have digested more than 100 "statements of factual information" gathered by the committee staff and listened to three tapes, most members are still waiting to see where the evidence is going to lead.

The first full week of hearings ended with a new controversy between the committee and the White House over whether they should be opened to the public. So far they have been closed, and Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., seems determined to keep them that way, at least through next week.

The White House picked up some allies among Democratic members for opening the hearings after transcripts of the first two tapes the committee played were leaked to The Washington Post.

Rodino countered, however, by ordering that all transcripts be collected after each session.

Rodino has closed this phase of the hearings because the evidence being presented includes secret material from the Watergate grand jury that was given to the committee with the understanding it would be kept confidential if possible.

In preparation for the eventual opening of the sessions, work crews moved into the committee room over the weekend to install equipment that will permit television cameras to be hung from the ceiling.

Funds head city council agenda Monday

The Carbondale City Council will continue its deliberations on funding city departments and civic action groups at its Monday meeting set for 7 p.m. in the University City Complex.

Budget discussions dominated the previous city council meeting, with most of the council's attention focused on allocations from the city's General Fund. Four civic groups—the Bureau of Employment Security, the Carbondale Senior Citizens Council, the Carbondale Teen Council and the Carbondale Free Clinic have requested a total of $45,280 from the General Fund. The council is expected to decide Monday which of the four will receive funding.

Nineteen established city accounts have also requested funds and City Manager Carroll Fry will present his recommendations for funding these accounts to the council. Of the 19 accounts, Fry has assigned seven a first priority funding rank. In all but three cases, Fry's recommendations are below—and generally far below—the budgets requests.

The council also will act on Mayor Neal Eckert's recommendation that SIU graduate student Thomas Ellison, be appointed to the Human Relations Commission.

Ellison is enrolled in the Graduate School as a possible candidate for a master's degree in the School of Rehabilitation. He is a five-year resident of Carbondale, with more than three years' work experience at the House of Glass.

In other action, the council will consider two contracts for services. Under consideration is a contract with John Womick, city attorney, for another year of Womick's services and one with Clark, Dietz and Associates for consulting services in connection with the Railroad Relocation Project.

A proposed gas and electric rate increase by CIPS will be discussed in the light of recommendations from the Illinois Commerce Commission. The City Council is expected to take a formal stand on the CIPS rate hike.

Leasing contracts for seven automobiles and a van also will be submitted to the council. The vehicle leases will be funded by an Illinois Law Enforcement Commission grant.

Low bid on the automobile leases came from Wallace Enterprises, Inc. of Carbondale. Wallace, one of three bidders, offered a contract of $14,952. Low bidder on the van lease was Claunch Motors of Herrin, but the City Purchasing Agent will recommend the contract be let to Vogler Ford, Carbondale. Vogler can guarantee delivery of the van in half the time of the low bidder. There is a $72.98 difference between the Claunch bid and Vogler bid of $3,921.66.

"Project Breakthrough", Carbondale's downtown sidewalk repair project, will get under way pending council approval on Monday. The project will resurface and remove barriers to handicapped persons on Illinois Avenue sidewalks from Oak Street south to Freeman Street on the west and from Oak Street to 809 S. Illinois Ave. on the east side of the street.

The project will be paid for by special assessment. A public meeting May 17, turned up no public opposition to the project.

The council also will consider the proposed Merit Ordinance and reactions of city employees to the measure. The Merit Ordinance will govern dismissal and discipline of all municipal employees except union members and fire and police personnel.

Of 135 employees surveyed, 112 responded with opinions on the Merit Ordinance. Sixty-nine per cent of the employees favor the ordinance, 11.5 per cent oppose it and 19.5 per cent asked that city employees be placed on the Appeals Board which the ordinance creates and governs.

The report on the employee survey notes that most employees asking for employee representation on the board are members of the Plumbers' Union, who will not deal with the board.

However, union members were included in the survey because the City Attorney felt that presently, they are entitled to appeal to the city personnel board.

A bond ordinance governing waterworks and sewage revenue refunding will be submitted to the council by the City Attorney with his opinion. The ordinance is a revision of a measure discussed by the council last week.

Robert Stalls, Model Cities director, will present his 49-page report on the 1973-74 activities and progress of the City Demonstration Agency.

In the cover letter accompanying his report, Stalls says the Model Cities Program has contributed to "the most dramatic community improvements in our City's history."

Frozen gas pump prompts guessing

GREENTOWN, Ind. (AP)—Town fathers are all helping in the fuel conservation drive, but have found they cannot always tell how well the city's two police cars are doing.

During extreme winter cold, the gauge on the police gas pump froze up. It would still deliver gas, but wouldn't tell how much.

Two bombings in Northern Ireland kill an estimated 30, 128 wounded

✓ DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Three terrorists bombs planted in parked cars exploded with devastating force in the heart of Dublin killing the evening rush hour Friday, killing 25 persons and wounding more than 100, police said.

Another bomb burst 80 miles to the north, and officials said four more persons were killed in the explosion.

The day's carnage was the worst in anyone's memory of the five years of sectarian violence that has swept Ireland.

The Dublin fire brigade originally reported a death toll of 30 in Dublin. But police said they could not confirm that figure.

Officials said 28 persons were wounded in the blast outside a bar in Monaghan, to the north near the border of Northern Ireland.

Twenty-eight of the casualties in Dublin were in critical condition, police said.

There was no immediate information on who may have planted the bombs or why. Police said the blasts in three separate areas of Dublin came without warning.

Every hospital in this capital was mobilized to handle the flood of casualties. Off-duty personnel were ordered back to work.

Every ambulance was summoned to haul away victims from three rubble-strewn downtown streets. City buses also were commandeered.

Police headquarters said the bombs began exploding at about 5:45 p.m. on Findlater Place, Talbot Street and South Leinster Street, all in the vicinity of a big railroad terminal on Amiens Street.

"These are acts of outright war," a police spokesman said. "These people had no chance whatsoever."

Police and rescue squads clawed through the wreckage of three Talbot Street shops demolished by the explosion there. They said they were searching for several persons believed buried in the rubble.

It was the worst terrorist violence in this southern republic since 1972, when a bombing killed two persons and wounded 120 during a debate in the Dail, Ireland's parliament, on legislation to crack down on the Irish Republican Army, an underground guerrilla group fighting to unite the republic with Northern Ireland.

About a dozen persons have been killed previously in southern Ireland in violence connected with conflict in the North, which is a province of Great Britain. Most of the violence has been in the North, where 1,021 persons have been killed in nearly five years of sectarian strife between Roman Catholic and Protestant groups.

Peak picking season hosts record turnout

By Julie Titone
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Strawberry fields forever? Nope.

Southern Illinoisans know better than the Beatles. They know that the strawberries are only in those fields for a short three weeks. And a lot of people are out right now getting the sweet red treasure "outa them thar hills."

Strawberry pickin' is a late-spring tradition for many people, who go stooping and bending their way down the long rows in search of the makings for jams, pies and shortcakes. But this year, with higher food prices, a lot more people may be out in the strawberry fields. At about a quarter per pound or quart, pick-your-own berries are presently about one third the cost of those in supermarkets.

"I can't believe how many people have turned out this year," said David Vance of the Strawberry Ridge Farm. In less than two days this week Vance sold over 6,000 quarts of berries from his 10 acres near Cobden.

Vance said that he would have to close his field on Sunday and give the berries about two days to ripen again. The crop will last for two and a half to three weeks, he said, depending on such factors as how cold the evenings are.

For those who like to pick up a suntan along with their fruit, shorts and maybe a halter top are in order. But for those more concerned about not picking up ticks, mosquitoes and such, a different uniform is in order.

"Myself, I like to wear as many clothes as possible, including long sleeves and a buttoned up collar," Vance said.

Mrs. Charles Stadelbacher of the Blueberry Hill Farm said Friday that a breeze was keeping pickers "really comfortable" out in their 18-acre strawberry field. She suggested that pickers bring along something to drink while they worked, or even a picnic lunch if they plan to be out there during the noon hour.

Pickers needn't bring along containers for the berries, she said, since those are provided.

For Vance, Ms. Stadelbacher and all the local growers, business seems to be "berry" good.

temperatures dropped to five degrees and froze many buds. The apples apparently survived because of the large number of buds produced on the trees due to crop failure last year.

This spring is the third in a row the peach crop has been sorely hit. Gov. Daniel Walker is requesting that much of Southern Illinois' orchard lands be declared a disaster area because of heavy crop damage.

"It is a disaster," Sauer said. "I'd compare it with the flood disaster."

Sauer said he will begin harvesting apples "about June 20 and continue to November 1."

Armed police storm empty SLA 'hideout' after Friday shootout

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Heavily armed police and FBI agents stormed a suspected Symbionese Liberation Army hide out Friday in the belief three SLA members had fled there following a shootout. But the house was empty.

The Washington state patrol was later put on alert after receiving a report from the FBI that three SLA members were heading to Spokane. Their identities were not known, and it was not immediately apparent whether the two incidents were related.

Two young women and a man were seen at the house by neighbors this week, but the FBI discounted speculation that one of the women could have been kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

The SLA, described by police as a multiracial group of about 25 persons, has claimed responsibility for kidnapping Miss Hearst from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

"There is no indication at this time that is Miss Hearst," said William A. Sullivan, head of the FBI office here.

A youth was kidnapped by the three suspected SLA members after the Thursday night shootout that led to the siege of the house in the predominantly black south-central area of Los Angeles.

About 6 a.m., flak-jacketed police closed off a four-block area in south-central Los Angeles, positioned sharpshooters on rooftops and surrounded the single-story frame house. Firing tear gas through the front windows, officers swarmed into the house but found it abandoned.

Inside the house they found two boxes of shotgun ammunition, several empty shell casings, wigs, clothing, foods, suitcases and cardboard boxes.

Thursday night, two women and a man—all white—fled a sporting goods store in Inglewood, about five miles away from the house, in a barrage of gunfire after a clerk accused the man of stealing a pair of socks.

Police said the man was later identified by the clerk as William Taylor Harris, 29, and the FBI said the woman could have been Harris' wife, Emily.

Interest rates force market into steep dive

NEW YORK (AP)—Soaring interest rates pushed the stock market into a steep dive Friday in accelerated trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 16.50 points to 818.44, its lowest close in more than three months.

The New York Stock Exchange's more broadly based composite index, which had already hit a 3½-year closing low Thursday, tumbled another $2 to 46.56.

Losers outnumbered gainers overwhelmingly 1,233 to 229 as turnover increased to 13.87 million shares on the Big Board.

good," Sauer said. "But it's hard to tell so soon."

Rep. Clyde Chaoate, D-Anna, urged area fruit growers to express an immediate interest in federal crop insurance.

"A show of interest among growers would probably speed up consideration of those counties when circumstances permit expansion of crop insurance to our fruit growers," Chaoate said.

Chaoate said he has forwarded statistics detailing the acreage and number of trees maintained by peach and apple growers in 14 Southern Illinois counties to the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

27. Both are suspected SLA members. The second woman fired 27 carbine shots at the store front, and the clerk fired three shots as the trio fled in a van, police said. No one was hit.

The trio later abandoned the van and, brandishing weapons, stole three vehicles. They told one of the drivers, "We're from the SLA. We need your car," authorities said.

The trio kidnaped one of the drivers, Thomas D. Matthews, and drove him in Matthews' van to a drive-in movie where, Matthews said, they apparently planned to meet someone. Matthews, 18, who said he was treated cordially and given food and drink, later identified Mrs. Harris as one of his abductors, police said.

Nature group changes stand on refuge area

By John Russell
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Illinois Nature Preserves Commission has changed its stand on the proposal to designate part of the Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge as a wilderness area. "The original stand was taken too hastily," said George Fell, executive secretary of the commission, which originally opposed the wilderness plan.

Designation by Congress as a wilderness area will prevent manipulation and management by man of the 4,050 acres covered by the proposal. The area, encompassing the land bordering the southern tip of Little Grassy and Devil's Kitchen Lakes, would be allowed to revert to its natural state.

At a Feb. 7 public meeting in Marion, commission chairman W. D. Klimstra said the commission opposed the proposal because the area did not meet the requirements of the Wilderness Act of 1964.

The act requires that wilderness areas be untouched by man. The commission's position was that man's work has changed a large part of the area.

Since the February meeting, Klimstra, SIU professor of cooperative wildlife research, has been replaced as commission chairman by Charles Olmstead, a University of Chicago professor.

Fell said the commission decided to change its stand after receiving a number of letters protesting its position.

The commission then analyzed in detail the guidelines for wilderness areas, Fell said. He said the definition of wilderness as stated in the Wilderness Act was not very specific.

Fell said the commission determined from its analysis that a wilderness area is not required by the act to be completely undisturbed by man.

The Department of Conservation has also done further studies on the philosophical and practical questions of the wilderness area designation, Fell said.

A statement released by the department in March proposes that Rocky Comfort Road leading to the wilderness area be closed, and that motor boats be prohibited in some of the arms of both Little Grassy and Devil's Kitchen lakes.

The commission now finds itself "in general agreement with the statement of the department," Fell said. The original position of the commission, he said, was based on a stricter interpretation of the Wilderness Act than the interpretation made by the department and Congress."

Famed area apple crop 'looks good'

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

This hot, humid weather may frizzle your hair and frazzle your nerves, but it is making one thing bloom—Southern Illinois' famed apple crop.

John Sauer of Sauer Orchards in Murphysboro said his apples "look good."

"We'll get close to a full crop of apples," Sauer said, "but no peaches at all."

Janet Shingleton of McGuire's Orchards "In the Heart of Appleland" agreed. "We'll have a fair crop of apples but the peach crop is going to be kind of small," Ms. Shingleton said.

The peaches were nearly wiped out in a late freeze during March when tem-

Letters To The Daily Egyptian

Read and beware

To the Daily Egyptian:

This is a warning to juniors and seniors who do not wish to be ripped off by pushy college life insurance salesmen who make it their business to rush in, give the pitch and have the student make a snap decision to buy without time to think it over or catch his breath. The salesman's pitch discourages you from checking with your parents who have experience in buying insurance, and you have none.

The March issue of the "Changing Times" magazine has an article that tells of the tricky tactics that college life insurance salesmen are using across the country and in Carbondale. I urge those persons who have not yet been visited by an agent to read in this article what they can expect to happen to them. The agents use the SIU student listing from A to Z.

I hope this experience I had will help the person who does not want to be pushed into the "$20 now and $600 upon graduation" easy payment policy.

After the agent called me and I told him I was not interested, the agent said, "when can we show you our policy?" You feel awful if you don't give him 45 minutes.

He came to my place and showed me the policy for three hours. "Just sign right here," he said. I told him I wanted to think it over and show my parents. "This is your decision, not your parents. You are on your own," he said. I was actually worn out and needed to regain my senses when he was finished.

The agent will show you how much money you will make to be successful after graduation. "You surely can set aside this small amount each month for insurance," according to this figure you will be making," he said.

Just to think it over, I gave the agent the requested amount of $20, but I made it clear to him I was not totally sure I would buy the policy. He assured me that I could get out of buying if I changed by intentions before signing the contract that he would bring in two weeks. Sounded fair.

Well, I went home and talked to my family's insurance agent about a similar policy. It was only fair for the man who has sent me birthday cards for the last 20 years to have the chance to show me his policy. For the same benefits, his policy was $200 a year cheaper than the one offered by the college agent.

When the college agent called me again, I told him his policy was too expensive and I did not want it. He said, "But you don't have to pay until after graduation." I said that's next year, and there is 8 per cent interest on the unpaid note until then. Let's just cancel it like you said I could. After a last attempt to change my mind at his office, he handed me a cancellation form and said, "By the way, there is a $15 cancellation fee."

YOU NEVER TOLD ME ABOUT THAT!!!
If he did, I would not have given him $20 to think it over.

After a short discussion, he agreed to waive the fee. I signed a release form which said I was refunded $20. "You will get a check from the company in two weeks." Yes, but...

From the life insurance company in Indianapolis, Ind. came a check for $5.

It took another two weeks after writing to the Illinois Department of Insurance complaint department for me to finally receive the balance of $15 from the company.

Disparaging diatribe

To the Daily Egyptian:

We were (and are) quite amused by your printing a letter from Mr. Kyu Young Chai on the sorry state of the SIU Saluki sign and accompanying picture that originally appeared in the May 1 Daily Egyptian. We find our sense of poetico-academic justice more than satisfied by this sign's present condition of decrepitude. Who really wants to be reminded of the putrid miasma here after so many troubles and lawsuits over fired faculty members (some tenured and some not), falling enrollment and the inability or unwillingness of the proper authorities and the student body itself to remedy the situation, and the accompanying unfortunate intellectual and ethical decline manifested in so many other ways? The broken sign thus serves a useful function, despite its dilapidated condition. One reads of the endless round of discussions, debates, and of that other favorite administrative device—the formation of committees—to deal with academic and personnel problems at this institution at first with an air of concern that suddenly changes to bewilderment and finally disgust as the problems mentioned earlier in this letter remain to bedevil successive administrators.

One also asks why any type of sign is required to direct visitors here. As the institution's official mascot is a species of dog, and since dogs are renowned for their sensitivity to olfactory stimulation, then surely their owners and numerous admirers need only utilize the one sense to locate this place. Parental desires to survey the campus and its immediate environs are indeed important and essential to Academe's final rite of spring, commencement. However, signs pointing to the university need to be complemented by an equal number of signs revealing the shortest and quickest routes away from an institution which in so many ways so

True Christian defined

To The Daily Egyptian:

This is in reply to Lane Bateman's open letter to the "true" Christians of Carbondale, May 8 which appeared in the DE. I sense a bitterness in his letter to which I would like to reply.

In his letter, Mr. Bateman said the portrayal of a homosexual in the play "Suddenly Last Summer" as "a sick man who pursues young naked boys for coons" is perfectly all right as far as the loyal followers of Jesus are concerned. Mr. Bateman, in denouncing a common stereotype of a homosexual, seems to stereotype Christians.

Christians are like any other group of people. They are individuals with different beliefs and ideas. Our main common trait is that our hearts are filled with God's love. But, we, like homosexuals or any other group of people, are only human. We slip sometimes, too.

No, Mr. Bateman, I didn't denounce "Suddenly Last Summer." But neither did I denounce "Lying in State."

I don't presume to know what is right or wrong. Only God knows that. I only ask one thing of any non-Christians. Pray to God and ask Him to enter your life. If you let Him come into your heart, He will tell you what is right or wrong.

Mr. Bateman's definition of a "true" Christian seems to indicate a critical and hard hearted person. This is my definition of a true Christian:

A true Christian is someone whose heart overflows with love, peace and joy. A true Christian is someone who is understanding and compassionate. A true Christian will love his enemy and do everything in his power to help him find God. A true Christian, like anyone else, constantly falls, but he keeps struggling until God reaches out and helps him up.

So please, Mr. Bateman, don't lump Christians all in one gigantic stereotype. I sense from your letter that your experience with Christians hasn't been too pleasant. But maybe you haven't met any true Christians.

As for myself, I'm lucky enough to know some true Christians and I thank God for them everyday.

shortchanges, gyms and disgusts so many of its more intelligent residents.

We close our letter with a paraphrase from Jonathan Swift, the pre-eminent satirist of the early eighteenth century: "Last week I saw a University flayed, and you will hardly believe how much it altered its Person for the worse." A sign's sad shape only symbolizes conditions of disarray and despair that need substantial attention here and now; perhaps the sign ought to retain its present (dry) rot until far more serious problems are dealt with and solved.

"Shades of Lucifer"

To the Daily Egyptian:

Shades of Lucifer! Will our school that started out as a normal with such fine, upstanding, moral Christian men as Dr. Rob't Allen and later Dr. Daniel B. Parkinson heading the once proud normal school degenerate into a "Berkeley" type university with its conglomerate of hippies, yuppies, chippies, streakers and homosexuals?

What would the late President Shryock think if he knew what was happening to his once highly respected school? I am sure he would have expelled every streaker and fired that Bateman who had the audacity to boast in print that he was one of those who have a "lover" of the same sex.

If the president doesn't have the authority or the "intestinal fortitude" to fire him then the board members should see that he is dismissed pronto! At one time every minister that was being transferred from another charge was always hoping he would be transferred to Carbondale because our many churches and our schools were staffed with teachers of high moral character and no saloons in the town, but not any more.

Many a fine young person who has come from a good Christian home has had his or her faith destroyed by the teachings of some of our atheistic, socialistic and communist sympathizers as teachers. School taxes are the biggest tax burden and people are sick and tired and "fed-up" to the gills with being taxed to death to school such "crackpots" who are here just loafing at their parent's expense and for a bunch of "kooky" teachers whose salaries are three or four times what the "little fellow," who has to float the bill, gets.

Daily Egyptian Opinion & Commentary

EDITORIALS The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters to the editor. Editorials, labeled Opinion, are written and signed by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only.

LETTERS—Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters which must be signed with name, classification and major or faculty rank, address and telephone number. Letters should be typewritten, and their length should not exceed 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are expected to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend on limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, and authorship of all letters must be verified by the Daily Egyptian. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other materials on pages four and five include editorials and articles reprinted from other publications, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

Politics launched in prohibition issue

By Marion W. Mitchell
(Sixth in a Series)

When Carbondale was incorporated in the spring of 1856, politics were of the home-grown variety and seldom had any relationship to national or state issues. The principal issue in Carbondale was whether liquor would be sold within the town. It seems that the ban on alcoholic beverages as recorded on the original town plat had no legally binding effect upon any except the first owner of any lot purchased. Therefore, alcohol had to be eliminated in another manner.

The first Board of Trustees for the Town of Carbondale was, for this primary reason, elected on an anti-whisky ticket. The first Board was made up of James Morgan, President, Gabriel Sanders, James M. Campbell, Asgill Connor, and Alfred Singleton. Daniel Brush was appointed Clerk of the Board.

The President, Morgan, was in favor of granting licenses to sell liquor, but the other four members of the Board were united in their opposition. After long debate, the prohibition viewpoint held firm and so Carbondale remained "dry". Prohibition laws have never been completely effective and Carbondale was to be no exception. Major James Hampton, a highly respected veteran of the Blackhawk and Mexican Wars, opened Carbondale's first known liquor retail business on Lot No. 134 in northeast Carbondale. (The Thrift Shop now occupies that site).

A law suit was brought against Hampton, which he lost. He immediately reopened his saloon and appealed the case to the circuit court. Hampton evidently continued to sell liquor while a circuit court decision was pending although he was arrested several times and a separate suit was brought against him each time. Hampton eventually lost all the suits, closed down his operation, and started a Blind Tiger. Ultimately, as could be expected, his covert liquor sales were detected and Hampton was once again arrested and fined.

Hampton, if possessing few other virtues, was determined. Apparently he decided that if he couldn't whip them, he would infiltrate them, and ran for a seat on the Board of Trustees. After he was soundly defeated, he opened a furniture store. After serving briefly as Postmaster, he finally gave up in disgust and moved to Franklin County. He was elected to the 21st General Assembly (1859-60) while residing there.

Another outstanding opponent of prohibition was Israel Blanchard. Blanchard, sometime Mayor of Murphysboro, attempted to inject party politics into the liquor question by terming those who favored the anti-whisky ticket "Black Republicans".

James Campbell, a leading businessman who had migrated from Marion in 1854, took exception to being thus labelled:

"...[Campbell]...became very angry at once, and wanted to whip Blanchard for calling him a Black Republican; for", said Campbell, "I was born and raised a Democrat, and I am a better Democrat than you ever were, and I don't want you to call me a Black Republican, for I was one of the Board that passed the anti-whisky ordinance, and I am still for it."

—Newsome

Several others present reminded Blanchard that only two of the five Board members were Republicans and the remaining three were Democrats. Others, during this exchange, were apparently involved in restraining Campbell from physically attacking Blanchard. James Campbell was evidently both short tempered and capable of taking care of himself. At another election, someone called Campbell a liar. Campbell's reply was a quickly-thrown punch. A free-for-all erupted. Voting was forgotten as the polls were deserted and a crowd gathered to watch the fracas. One participant dashed into Mr. Campbell's hotel (where it seems most of these donnybrooks originated), snatched up a chair to use as a weapon and started to rejoin the fray. The would-be chair wielder was stopped by "old Mister Mason" who was waving a pistol about. Mason, who had seen enough fighting for one day, was accused by Israel Blanchard of having snapped the pistol into the crowd. The gun did not go off and no harm was done. Peace was restored and the election went on. The anti-whisky faction won again.

Liquor was defeated in election after election. The sale of alcoholic beverages was forbidden within a mile of the city limits. According to the Carbondale Ordinances of 1874, it was illegal to introduce, store, possess or dispense in any manner any alcoholic beverages whatsoever. By a careful reading of the ordinances, it appears that one could purchase his firewater elsewhere and import it for his private use with little difficulty—as long as it was discreetly accomplished.

In 1890, Daniel Brush, founder of Carbondale and unofficial arbiter of its morals, was killed in a tragic accident on the Brush School playground. Edmund Newsome, in his 1894 "History of Jackson County" spoke of Brush and the members of the anti-whisky Board:

"They are all dead, but what they did at their first meeting has left their mark on the city. Their works do follow them."

—Newsome

The death of Brush and the other founding fathers of Carbondale brought a change. By 1905, establishments for the retail sale of liquor were now legalized, licensed and regulated. Some of the regulations saloons or "dram shops" functioned under are rather interesting:

1. There could be no private rooms for drinking or gambling.
2. They could be open only from 5 a.m. to 12 p.m., except from 12 p.m. Saturday until 5 a.m. Monday.
3. There could be no loud, boisterous, profane or vulgar language, music or singing permitted in a dram shop.
4. Children under sixteen were not to be admitted without their parents and minors could not purchase liquor without their parent's or guardian's consent.
5. No dram shop could be located closer than 100 feet to any building used for church or school purposes.

So at last, alcohol made its way to Carbondale. But by this time, Carbondale had acquired the one thing which the presence of legalized liquor sales might well have denied it: A college!

No record

I was at a wedding the other day, and although I was seated several pews from the altar, eight words in the ceremony jumped right into my lap.

Here were the eight magic words: "Love does not keep a record of wrongs." They are found in the TEV version of I Corinthians 13:5.

I thought how we keep a record of nearly everything else — social security records, tax records, school records, business records, health records. You name it, and somewhere a computer is silently compiling all those vital statistics about you and me.

Then I thought of all the numbers assigned to us, to aid in record-keeping. There's your telephone number and your social security number. And your car license number as well as your driver's license. And yes, let's remember to include your house number and zip code and all those credit card numbers.

But here's one record not to keep, one that you need not assign a number to. And that's a record of the times that other people wrong you.

Now spite will keep a record. Yes sir, spite remembers every little slight and hurt. Spite never forgets, and never forgives. The only trouble is, there's no cement in spite to hold a marriage or a friendship together.

Do you want to know the secret of the stick-to-itiveness of love? And why love has such tremendous power to cement? Then remember the eight magic words: "Love does not keep a record of wrongs."

Retarded, disturbed given help

By David Ambrose
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

On the road back to social involvement, 168 mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed adults are being educated by two young ladies at John A. Logan Junior College in Carterville.

The classes, centering around basic math and language skills, are designed to help residents of nine shelter care homes in the junior college district to adjust and get back into society.

Jennie Larson and Debbie Daley teach the classes which have been conducted for slightly longer than a year.

"This is a very new thing," Ms. Larson said. "We've done a lot of right things and we've done a lot of wrong things."

Students' ages range from 22 to 70, but the instructors pointed out that chronological age had little to do with the educational level of the participants.

Educationally, they range from pre-kindergarten to high school. Ms. Daly teaches higher educational levels while Ms. Larson is involved with lower levels.

"There's a lot of motivation involved," Ms. Daly said. "We probably spend 50 per cent of our time just motivating and the other 50 per cent teaching."

Upper-level participants are taught spelling, math, reading and English usage.

It is important for them to be able to use the language correctly, form proper sentences and read in order to get into society again, Ms. Daly explained.

Lower-level participants are taught to recognize and write their name, count money and other basic skills.

Ms. Larson said the program does not use a reward system of teaching as some other programs do.

"We're working toward building their integrity," Ms. Daly said. "Instead of giving them some kind of physical reward we try to give them some success at something every day... It's more of an intrinsic reward system."

"We've seen great improvements this year," Ms. Daly said. Grade averages rose 1.5 per cent in reading and 1.4 per cent in math.

"We expect to see that much improvement again—probably even more," she said.

Ms. Daly said the program's instructional tactics are "highly individualized."

Elementary textbooks won't work, she said, because the participants aren't like normal adults and they're not like normal children. They can't be taught like children.

She explained that while elementary texts are sequential, an adult in a special population occasionally learns the more advanced material before the elementary material. One might for example, she said, learn to multiply before learning to add.

"You can give them a sheet of figures to add," she said, "and they'll multiply them all."

"There are no books for adult basic education," Ms. Larson said. "We can use regular classroom materials as sort of a guideline but that is about all."

The program is the "only one of its kind in the area," Ms. Daly said. There are only three in the state.

Originally started in April 1973 as an experimental program on a federal grant, the classes are now John A. Logan sponsored and supported by a number of state-funded facilities including the Illinois Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction.

"Our program is just one spoke in the wheel," Ms. Larson said. She explained that the John A. Logan program is academic only and that the participants must be socially rehabilitated to adjust to living in society.

"If they don't do a good job, then our work is nothing," she said. "It all has to work together."

Merits of music help rescue performance of two requiems

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two requiems—one by Faure and one by Mozart—were performed Friday evening in Muckelroy Auditorium by the University Chorus, who rendered a concert that predominantly relied on the merits of the music, for the performances were varied considerably in competence.

In other words, hearing these works performed is a pleasurable experience, but the performance—particularly in the Faure piece—left much to be desired.

Faure, a French composer of the late 19th century, believed "The love of pleasure and the avoidance of pain are the first and most natural impulses observable in mankind. Art, has therefore every reason to be voluptuous."

And within the sacred context of the Requiem text, Faure's setting reflects this philosophy with lush, thick chords that rely on fine tone quality for a fine performance. Unfortunately, the University Chorus with their 150 singers rendered a rather thin tone, particularly in the male voices and sopranos. And when these sections sang individually, the lack of vocal support was most apparent. In fact, they did not blend the chords with the needed pitch accuracy to obtain the necessary delicate texture. The same criticisms can be applied to the accompanying University Orchestra.

A Review

However, the solo passages by soprano Marjane Marvin, with her skillful phrasing and well-controlled vibrato were a saving highlight in this performance, as were baritone Alex Montgomery's passages. But this is not unusual—these two performers always highlight concerts in which they are featured.

Unlike the Faure piece, the Mozart Requiem is tranquil, for the composer wrote it as he was dying. Thus, the Mozart setting of the Requiem text is permeated with descending scale passages in a minor key and chords unusually dissonant for the classical period in which it was written.

The choir and orchestra fared much better in this composition, making the strong, confident passages much more numerous than the weak ones. Again there were intonation problems, but the choir illuminated the spirit of the Mozart piece, whereas the Faure piece was dull. Again, the soloists were fine: Montgomery, Ms. Marvin, contralto Catherine Mabus and tenor James Justice. Also, Stan Adams played a fine trombone solo in the opening passages of the "Tuba Mirum." Unfortunately, tight deadlines called me away from the concert before the close of the Mozart piece, thus I can't account for the total performance.

The concert will be repeated at 8 p.m. Saturday in Muckelroy Auditorium.

Chinese charge espionage

Russians may be given trial

By Stephens Broening
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP)—Chinese diplomats have told westerners in Moscow that three Soviet helicopter pilots detained in China probably will be brought to trial for espionage, diplomatic sources reported Friday.

But some western experts in Sino-Soviet relations doubted that the Russians would be put on trial and saw the Chinese statements as part of a policy of making the Soviets squirm.

The Soviets have told the Chinese that the pilots and their Mi-4 helicopter must be returned or Peking will face "the inevitable consequences." The Soviets say the aircraft strayed across the disputed frontier last March 14 on a mission of mercy.

Receiving western colleagues this week, the Chinese created the impression that Peking had decided on a trial of the three Russians.

They not only said the trial would probably take place, but also recalled the precedent of American airmen captured in China during the Korean War, the diplomatic sources reported. The U.S. fliers were tried and given long prison sentences.

Other diplomats provided information on another development in the incident.

The Soviet press reported that Deputy Foreign Minister Leonid Ilychov, on May 2, had summoned Chinese Ambassador Liu Hsingchuan to the Foreign Ministry to demand return of the crew and aircraft.

Ilychov emphasized that "if the Chinese side intends to further detain the helicopter and its crew, to abuse the Soviet people, it thereby assumes full responsibility for inevitable consequences of this provocative stand," Tass reported at the time.

The diplomatic sources disclosed that contrary to wide-spread assumptions, the Chinese had replied and told the Soviet ambassador in Peking on May 4 that the pilots "will be dealt with under Chinese law."

Several western specialists in Soviet-Chinese affairs said a public trial of the three Russians would be, as one put it, "a shocker."

Grade schools to get new language program

A new language arts program for kindergarten fourth, fifth and sixth grade students in Carbondale elementary schools will begin in September.

At its Thursday meeting, the elementary school board accepted the language art committee's program using materials from the American Book Company, Lyons and Carahan, the Modern Curriculum Press and Houghton Mifflin for kindergarten classes.

Fourth through sixth graders will use Allyn Bacon and Houghton Mifflin language arts texts. The total cost of the 1974-75 program will be $7,710.83.

A language arts program beginning in the 1975-76 school year for first through third graders will use Houghton Mifflin texts, at a cost of more than $11,000.

The board also decided to make no boundary changes for the upcoming school year. Public Housing units

Faculty, Foote

will be featured at Sunday recital

Guest artist Bruce Foote will combine his baritone voice with the talents of several School of Music faculty members to perform a recital at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Home Economics Auditorium.

The program consists of Heinrich Schütz' "Symphonia Sacra," ("O Quam Tu Pulchra Es!" and "Veni di Libano" specifically) in which Foote will perform with tenor Burt Kageff, harpsichordist John Boe, cellist Robert House, violinist John Stubbs and violinist Lisa Grigg.

Accompanied by pianist Terry Martin, Foote will sing Cesti's "E Dove T'aggiri," Handel's "Nascere al bosco," Strauss' "Traum durch die Dämmerung," Brahms' "Verrath" and Massenet's "Vision Fugitive."

Burt Kageff will give solo performances of Schubert's seven songs from "Die Schöne Müllerin." The program will be concluded with Foote performing four songs by Henry Russell.

The concert is free of charge and open to the public.

of anniversary

The Rockhill Baptist Church will celebrate its 103rd anniversary on Sunday with a guest speaker and the presentation of a play.

The Rev. Harold Davis, Jr., pastor of the Pilgrim Baptist Church in Quincy, will speak at Rockhill Baptist at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. The Rockhill Thespians will present "Eyes of Faith" at the church.

The church was first organized in Topintown, a rural section of Makanda. In 1871, it moved to Carbondale and located in the 200 block of East Walnut Street. About 30 years later, the church moved to its location at 219 E. Monroe. The present church was built in 1925.

The present pastor of the church, Rev. Walter Bowie, Jr., has served since 1970.

Board continues

meeting Tuesday

The Carbondale Community High School (CCHS) Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to continue its May 16 meeting.

The board recessed at midnight after meeting in executive session for consideration of personnel matters. The board is expected to act on the resignation of CCHS head football coach Vern Pollock and wrestling coach Bob Odum.

The meeting will be held in the Learning Center of Carbondale Community High School-Central.

Job search top priority at workshop

About 50 physically disabled students attended a workshop Friday in the Student Center. The workshop was to introduce handicapped students to the job search process and procedures for interviewing.

Representatives from Sears Corporation, IBM Co. and the Division for Vocational Rehabilitation (DVR) talked with the students.

Diane Tinsley of the Career Planning and Placement service said she thought the workshop was very worthwhile because students were able to be counseled individually.

A film, "Tie or Turtleneck" which shows students how to be confident and know what is expected in an interview was shown. The film is scheduled to be shown three days a week from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. at the Placement Service for the next few weeks. Ms. Tinsley said. All SIU students are invited to see the film.

Easter Seal board gets new president

I.P. Brackett, Carbondale, has been elected president of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults Board of Directors in Southern Illinois.

The election came during a recent meeting of the board of directors at the SIU Student Center.

Through the past 23 years, Brackett has supervised cooperative speech and hearing programs with the Easter Seal Society and Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology at SIU.

He was involved in the initial planning of the local society in 1951 and has served on the society's professional Advisory Council. He is presently a member of the Illinois State Easter Seal Society board of directors.

Republican state chairmen still cool on resignation issue

By The Associated Press

Not one of the 50 state chairmen of the Republican party believes President Nixon should resign, and two-thirds of them expressed some degree of support for him.

A nationwide Associated Press survey of all the GOP state chairmen found 14 who expressed strong support for Nixon, 28 who said he should not resign and that impeachment proceedings should continue and 8 who were either highly disturbed about the President or declined any direct comment. Not one said Nixon should step down.

Thirty-three of the 50 chairmen expressed support for the President. In addition to the 14 who reacted with immediate strong support, 19 of the 28 who said impeachment proceedings should continue also expressed support for Nixon. The other nine either didn't mention support, were noncommittal or were critical of Nixon. In all, there were 12 GOP chairmen who expressed concern about Nixon.

The GOP chairmen were asked this week whether they still supported Nixon, whether he should resign or be impeached, if their opinion of Nixon had changed since the edited White House transcripts were released and whether they believed Watergate and the President would have an adverse effect on GOP chances in the fall elections.

None said his opinion of Nixon had changed because of the transcripts, although at least 10 said they were bothered either by profanity in the transcripts or by what they called a lack of moral concern. Only a few said they wanted Nixon to campaign for their candidates in the November elections, but only four of the chairmen said they didn't want Nixon to campaign, with the remainder saying they would leave it up to the candidates.

Almost all the chairmen said they believed their candidates would do well in November because the voters would not blame Watergate on Republicans. And all who commented directly on the subject said they were anxious to have the impeachment proceedings over with, but many said it was necessary that the House investigation continue to a conclusion so that Watergate could be ended.

Of the 14 chairmen who expressed strong support for Nixon, eight are from Southern states.

East Campus party activities scheduled

The Mellow Munchie Boogie Party will be the biggest event on campus all year, John Izzo, adviser to East Campus student activities, said, of the Saturday event.

"We expect about 2,000 students to turn out. With a little sunshine to back us up, it'll be a really nice day," Izzo said.

Alumni Day banquet set for June 8

The SIU Alumni Association will sponsor the annual Alumni Day program with class reunions and an Alumni Banquet June 8.

The 1974 Great Teacher Award will be presented to the faculty member cited by alumni for teaching excellence. Achievement Awards also will be given to distinguished alumni at the banquet scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Class reunions and elections for the class of 1973 and all classes ending in "4" and "9" will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. on the third floor lounge of the Student Center. The SIU Alumni Association Legislative Council will meet at 1:15 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

The Alumni Association Board of Directors will hold a luncheon at noon June 7 in the University Club, followed by a board meeting at 1:30 p.m.

Cost of the banquet will be $4.50 and reservations should be made by June 3. Registration will begin at 11 a.m. in the Student Center.

Events for the beach party will begin at 1 p.m. Greased watermelon, logrolling, body painting and balloon toss contests plus canoe races and volleyball are scheduled.

Hotdogs and hamburgers will be served from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Mathias, a rock band, will play from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. followed by Unique Experience, a soul group of East St. Louis from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. WSIU radio will be broadcasting from the beach during dinner.

A film fest is set to begin at 9:30 p.m. and last most of the night, Izzo said. The films are "Little Big Man," "Dr. Syn Alias the Scarecrow" and the original "King Kong." Cartoons will be shown in-between films.

Cactus Pete will appear at 4 p.m. and judge the body painting contest. The beach party is sponsored by East Campus dorms. Everyone is invited.

Izzo said the planning committee hopes to make the party an annual event.

If it rains Saturday, the party will be Sunday.

Church Corner

High school 'swing choir' to perform Sunday evening

Company II, a swing choir from Carthage High School, Carthage, will perform at 7:30 p.m. June 2 at the First Christian Church, 130 S. University, according to the Rev. Charles Watkins, minister.

Company II is made up of high school students who demonstrate outstanding musical talent as well as excellent academic achievement, Rev. Watkins said. They have performed more than 30 times this year.

Selections for the Carbondale performance will include numbers from "Sesame Street," folk songs, spirituals, pop tunes, swing numbers, solos, revival tunes and rock-and-roll numbers.

Company II is directed by Richard Nance, a graduate of Milliken University and Director of Choral Activities in the Carthage school system.

Nance arranges much of the music for the choir. He is director of music at the First Presbyterian Church in Carthage and is directing the summer music theater program for the Hancock County Arts Society this summer.

The performance is open to the public.

Services to feature music

The Rev. Paul Sims will preach services at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Sunday at the First United Methodist Church, 214 W. Main, Carbondale.

The Carbondale Community High School orchestra will play during the early service and the Sanctuary Choir will sing in the second service.

Rev. Sims is district superintendent in the Carbondale area. He will leave his post and the area in mid-June to become administrative assistant to the bishop of the area in Springfield.

A reception will be held following the second service in honor of Rev. Sims, his wife, Jeanne, and their two daughters, Carol and Cathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray DeJarnett and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Graham, lay members to the annual conference, will serve as hosts.

Rev. Sims' position will be taken by Boyd Wagner from the Collinsville area.

Unitarian services set

Regular services at the Unitarian Fellowship, 301 W. Elm, Sunday, will consist of a Family Sharing Program on "Childhood."

Participants will discuss childhood beliefs, what they thought of Sunday School and church and other aspects of their own childhood.

Sharon and Sarunh Thach are host and hostess for the 10:30 a.m. service.

Bills introduced to fund two campus programs

Two bills introduced in the State legislature this week, if passed, will appropriate $20,000 for SIU's driver education for disabled students program and $100,000 to build a beef cattle testing station at SIU.

State Rep. Norbert Springer, R-Chester, introduced the bill for the disabled students drivers education program. He said the bill was created as a direct result of a letter he received from Tim Flannigan, a disabled student at SIU.

"Flannigan told Springer that 'unless disabled persons are able to transport themselves to and from work, programs for their rehabilitation are largely useless.'"

The $20,000 would go to the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation to get the program back to an independent status after the Federal Department of Transportation's denial to continue funding.

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, introduced the $100,000 bill to build a beef cattle testing station at Southern Illinois.

Choate explained that the testing station would benefit both Southern Illinois livestock producers and agriculture students at SIU. The station, advocated by the Illinois Livestock Feeders Association, would conduct tests to determine which animals are best for breeding purposes.

The $100,000, if appropriated, would be for the construction of the facility. Operating expenses would be raised from fees charged to cattle owners who bring their bulls for testing.

Student projects to be displayed at Herrin school

The Egyptian Roundtable No. 20 Industrial Education Home Economics Exhibit will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Herrin High School Gymnasium.

The exhibit will display projects completed during the school year by industrial arts or vocational education students, grades 7 through 12.

The projects will be judged on the basis of craftsmanship, opportunities for student learning and originality of design.

The deadline for registering projects at the Herrin Gym is 11 a.m. Saturday. The Occupational Education Department for Industrial Education and the Home Economics Department of SIU will award a scholarship for the most outstanding project in the exhibit.

'Fun, fun, fun' in the Arena

Beach Boys give SIU oldies

By M. B. Garrison
Daily Egyptian Graduate Assistant

There's something extremely satisfying about a concert which provides exactly what you wanted. For a near-capacity Arena audience Thursday night, the Beach Boys did just that.

The overwhelming majority of those listening wanted the oldies, and they got them. It made the concert a real trip back into the sixties.

Carl Wilson, a lead vocalist throughout the band's long history, summed up why the group still plays the oldies.

"We know they like them. We don't play them much now, but when we do, we like to do them just as much," he said.

When the musicians came on stage about 9:25 p.m., they were greeted with a standing ovation which carried into the opening number, "Wouldn't It Be Nice," from 1966. For the next hour and three quarters, the Beach Boys went through two dozen selections, including four numbers in two encores—17 of those were golden oldies.

To say the show was a good one might be an understatement. Judging from the reaction of the crowd, one of the sound console engineers even remarked afterward that it was "one of the best in a long time."

Most of the new material performed came from "Holland," their most recent album. One selection included Carl Wilson's original, "The Trader," in the Beach Boys' own folk style. "Long Promised Road" was also performed off the album.

The group displayed its characteristic blend of harmony on both the oldies and the newer pieces. The sound is refreshing, yet mellowing somewhat with age; but is still contains the vitality of youth.

The front line performers of the Beach Boys in action

Softer music came in the form of "Caroline No." and "Little Surfer Girl," both typical of the band's capability to master the tender romance in pop music. "God Only Knows," from "Pet Sounds," and "Don't Worry Baby" also set calmer moods during the concert, but were as well received as were the rock and rollin' tunes.

One arrangement was changed from the recorded version, this revealed when the group upped the tempo in "Sloop John B." It moved the crowd, as everyone surged forward to be closer to their band, and broke the concert wide open.

The group seemed to sense the mood, because it reeled off two more boogying sounds before the crowd could recover. The concert was clinched a success with "Help Me Rhonda" and "I Get Around," both from 1964.

The show was wrapped tight with an electrifying version of "Good Vibrations," and it was a pulsing crowd that got those good vibes, too. Their set ended about 75 minutes after it began, but the audience wouldn't let them stop. It took two encores, the crowd on its feet the entire time, to satisfy everyone.

The band came back out for another half hour, doing "California Girls," "Barbara Ann," "Surfin'

U.S.A.," and finally "Fun, Fun, Fun."

The show was a real audience participation trip. Carl Wilson, Al Jardine, Dennis Wilson and crazy Mike Love consistently got the audience singing, stomping, dancing, and clapping in the aisles.

Dennis Wilson went so far as to tell the guys with flashlights to cut them off so everyone could enjoy the music. "I didn't take much after that for the band to win its crowd. 'We want everyone to have a good time,' he said, 'and if you feel like dancing, well do it.'"

Had the group played all its hits, the show would not have let out until Friday afternoon. That's the most regretful aspect of their performance. When a group has recorded as many hits as the Beach Boys, it probably can do a complete tour without singing the same song twice.

Although Brian Wilson does not tour any longer, the rest of the original group does about ten dates a month.

Henry Gross, the five-man warm-up, performed about 45 minutes prior to the main show. The group, headed by Henry Gross, demonstrated excellent harmony from its three singers, and some exciting guitar work.

Among their efforts was their most recent single and a rousing version of Earl Scruggs' "Foggy Mountain Breakdown."

The Henry Gross set was also well received, as the group won a standing ovation at the end of their performance. Part of it was due to the guitar work by Gross on the concluding selection.

Meriweather weighing ABA offer, may play for Utah Stars next season

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

SIU's 6'11" basketball center Joe C. Meriweather said Friday he will decide in two to three weeks whether or not he will sign a three-year, no-cut contract with the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association (ABA).

Meriweather, the Salukis jumping-jack pivotman, still has one more year of eligibility as a collegian. He turned down an opportunity to apply as a hardship case in the rival National Basketball Association (NBA) in March, saying at that time he would probably be returning to play out his final year of college eligibility.

But Friday, Meriweather said his lawyers have been in touch with Utah and have acted as his middlemen in negotiations. "Right now," Meriweather said Friday on the court of the SIU Arena, "I'm more in favor of going to Utah than staying here for next year."

"The reason that I didn't sign up as a hardship case was that although an NBA team had talked to me (Portland), no one showed any real interest, so I didn't think they were really all that concerned."

"They (Utah) called me about three weeks before their draft and asked me if I was interested in playing for them," Meriweather explained. "Then they called me the day of the draft and told me I went in the first round."

Meriweather's coach, Paul Lambert, said he has tried only to advise Meriweather to consider all possibilities carefully and not jeopardize his college eligibility by negotiating illegally.

Lambert said Meriweather will have to decide whether or not he wants to play in the ABA and if he might enhance his financial security by waiting another year, having both leagues bid for his services.

"If I wanted to, I could wait until next year and get drafted by the NBA," Meriweather said. "But I think the ABA plays some good ball and I'd like to play for them."

Meriweather ended his junior season as the nation's sixth leading rebounder with a 14.9 per game average, ahead of such college stars as UCLA's Bill Walton. He averaged 21.9 points per game and blocked 90 shots to lead the Salukis to a 19-7 record.

"So far," Meriweather said, ringing a harsh note of depression for SIU basketball fans, "nothing has made me change my mind to make me feel like coming back next year."

Trainer picks Cannonade's strongest foes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Kentucky Derby runner-up Hudson County and Heir to the Line, the Preakness Prep winner, were singled out Friday as horses to watch by trainer Woody Stephens on the eve of his Derby winner Cannonade's bid to capture the Preakness.

"There are five or six horses in here that can run," said Stephens when asked what horse he thought Cannonade would have to beat Saturday.

But he only named two: "That little horse that ran second to me in the Derby and Tommy Kelly's horse Kelly trains Heir to the Line."

In all, 12 3-year-olds will oppose Cannonade in the 99th Preakness at Pimlico, which with 13 starters will have a record purse of $209,000, with a record winner's share of $156,500.

Post time for the 1 1/16 mile classic is 4:40 p.m., CDT, with television coverage, by CBS, from 4 p.m.-5 p.m. The weather forecast calls for possible early morning showers but no rain in the afternoon.

Trainer Stanley "Skip" Shapoff agreed with Stephens' high estimate of Hudson County, owned by Robert B. Cohen.

"My horse does have a very valuable turn of speed and in the Derby he demonstrates stamina," said Shapoff. "I think my horse can beat him."

Heir to the Line, owned by Craig F. Cullinan, has won four of five starts this year and has raced on the Pimlico track, an advantage denied John M. Olin's Cannonade and the six other Derby starters who are in the Preakness.

Heir to the Line, who worked three-sixteenths of a mile Friday, won the 1 1/16 mile Preakness Prep here last Saturday. The last Preakness Prep winner to win the Preakness was Greek Money in 1962.

Other Derby starters entered in the Preakness are Buck's Bid, Destroyer, Little Current, Rube the Great and J.R.'s Pet.

Jaycees, Park District plan Junior Sports Jamboree

Jackson County youths will have an opportunity to participate in track and field events at 1:30 p.m. June 2 at Bleyer Field in Carbondale.

The Jackson County Junior Sports Jamboree will be sponsored by the Carbondale Jaycees and the Carbondale Park District, according to Lou Morgan, Jaycee general chairman of the event.

Any resident of Jackson County who is between the ages of 10 and 15 as of August 31 is eligible to compete in the Jamboree.

Ribbons will be awarded to the first four places in each event and the win-

SIU downs ISU in home track meet

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Terry Erickson ran a 46 flat in the 440 and 45.9 split in the mile relay to help lead SIU to a 120-32 victory over Illinois State Friday at McAndrew Stadium.

An estimated 2,000 people attended the meet under rainy conditions to catch a glimpse of the "worlds fastest human" Ivory Crockett. Crockett, the world record holder of the 100-yard dash with a 9.0, ran a 9.5 in a stiff wind to win the 100-yard dash.

Crockett, a 1972 SIU graduate, placed first in the 220 with a 21.0.

Crockett, who set the world 100-yard-dash record last weekend, is not letting his instant stardome interfere with his future plans.

"I take one meet at a time," said the slender Crockett. "Every athlete shoots for the Olympics but I'm not going to think about it till the summer of 1976 when they hold the time trials."

Crockett still has a great feeling inside him after setting the new mark. "It's the type of feeling that will stay with me the rest of my life."

"Setting a world record just doesn't come because you're good," said Crockett. "My own hard work helped set the record."

Hartzog was full of praise after the meet. "The kids did a great job considering the weather. We put on a fine performance for a tremendous crowd."

Erickson, running his last race in McAndrew Stadium set a new stadium and personal record in the 440-yard-dash. Erickson was given a tremendous ovation as he wrapped up first place, running the anchor leg for the mile relay team.

Chris Thomas, a freshman from Carbondale, set a new freshman record in the pole vault clearing 15-0 to take first place. The old record was 14.9.

Jan Johnson put on an exhibition in the pole vault for the Saluki crowd and cleared 16-3 1/4. Johnson tried to make 16-8, but failed three times. Johnson holds the college record in the pole vault with a 18-0 1/4 vault. Johnson set that mark in 1972 when he was vaulting for Alabama.

SIU's Dave Hill qualified for the NCAA championships by running the mile in 4:03.7. Hill trailed by more than 10 yards going into the last lap, but a fast last lap put him over the NCAA qualifying mark by three tenths of a second.

"Dave ran a tremendous race," said Hartzog. "We're glad to have him qualified for the NCAA meet."
